Who says the Toyota 4-Wheel Drive Truck is leading the off-road pack? OFF-ROAD and PICKUP, VAN & 4WD! Both magazines named it "4WD of the Year" when introduced!

They liked the 2.2 liter engine—more power than any other small 4WD! Highest running ground clearance. And the Toyota's high-riding good looks and fancy interior.

The Sport Truck model has locking front hubs, full carpeting, AM/FM stereo radio and full instrumentation—all standard.

Surprised that a new design could be so good so soon? Don't be. The Toyota 4-Wheel Drive Truck is the "Son of a Land Cruiser"—a Toyota Land Cruiser, that is.

THE TOYOTA 4-WHEEL DRIVE TRUCK. IT'S LEADING EVERYONE OFF THE ROAD.

DR. JERRY BUSS

The Los Angeles Lakers' World Championship of 1980 was a tribute to chemistry — highly competent people, doing the correct things for the proper reasons. That the pieces all fit quite nicely, is documented by the Lakers' success on the court and their great appeal throughout the Southern California community.

These successes were due, as Jamaal Wilkes said, to the fact that the Lakers have good players, good coaching and a good front office. In this regard, owner Jerry Buss' leadership and accomplishments were considerable, his "rookie" ownership status notwithstanding.

Among these were the retaining of basketball-brilliant Jerry West in an advisory capacity to increase the Lakers staff expertise; hiring Jack McKinney as head coach, who in turn hired Paul Westhead; re-signing free agent Jamaal Wilkes, an act Buss viewed as top priority; giving general manager Bill Sharman the latitude to strengthen the Lakers where they needed help —rebounding — which led to the obtaining of Spencer Haywood, Jim Chones, and later, Mark Landsberger; improved several existing player contracts, generally putting that part of the Lakers house in order; making the critical decision to place the head coaching duties in the hands of an NBA novice —Westhead — after McKinney's bicycle accident; and turned Sharman loose to improve the Lakers future drafting position, which resulted in the Don Ford trade and ultimately bringing the Lakers Cleveland's 1982 number one pick.

Off the court, he was the NBAs "Rookie of the Year."

A self-made multi-millionaire, Buss was once headed for a life in academia. "I had originally wanted to teach science because, it was the type of subject that you could apply your mind to and use every single bit of your energy, imagination and ingenuity.

Buss graduated from the University of Wyoming with a degree in chemistry in two and one-half years, and later achieved a doctorate — physics and chemistry from the Universtiy of Southern California.

"Education is the answer today. My theory is I can take the average guy off the street and he can probably make 70 percent right decisions and that's the difference. I want to get 80 percent right. The way to get from 70 to 80 percent is education. You can't compete against the top people unless you are educated and self-education is not the answer. Very few people have the religious drive to do that. Education is an investment in yourself.

"Actually, I'm probably more of a mathematician than a chemist. To some people, numbers are as comfortable as words. They fascinate me, they're my passion. Some people think in terms of words; I think in terms of numbers."

On his way toward a career in teaching — Buss taught chemistry at USC for a brief time — he and partner Frank Mariani took an excursion into real estate a little over 20 years ago. Their hardearned success led to Buss' $67.5 million purchase of the Lakers, the Kings and the Forum in 1979 — the largest transaction in sports history.

Born in Salt Lake City on January 27, 1933, and raised in Kemmerer, Wyoming, Buss collects arts, antiques, rare stamps and coins, custom autos, reads enormously, listens with an educated ear to classical music, and shoots a nice game of pool.

He is the father of four children, two sons and two daughters.

BILL SHARMAN

In a career which in 30 years has stretched from Southern California to Boston and back again, Bill Sharman's name has been synonymous with championship basketball.

Last year Bill was given more authority, as General Manager of the Lakers, than ever before, and he developed the trades which brought Jim Chones, Mark Landsberger and some high draft choices to the Lakers.

And with Los Angeles winning their first World Championship since the 1971-72 season, Bill became just the second person in NBA history ever to play, coach and be a general manager for a World Championship team. Red Holtzman was the first.

Since becoming Lakers' General Manager prior to the 1976-77 season, the club has never missed making the playoffs. Sharman has proven time and time again to be just as big a winner in the front office, as he was coaching on the bench or playing on the court, and is a keen judge of talent, both on the college and professional levels.

Bill had a distinguished 11 year career in the NBA, ten of which were with the Boston Celtics. During that decade Boston won four World Championships, five division titles, and never suffered a losing season. Teamed with Bob Cousy, to form what many consider the best backcourt of all-time, Sharman averaged 17.8 points per game, shot .426 from the field, and an amazing .883 from the foul line. In playoff competition Sharman was even better, averaging 18.5 ppg and hitting 91% of his four shots in 78 games.

He still holds the third-best NBA single season free throw standard with a .932 percentage (342 of 367) in 1957-58 and the all-time consecutive free throw streak of 56 during the 1959 playoffs.

About Bill's uncanny shooting ability, Boston's Red Auerbach said it best, "Sharman had the ability to hold an object such as a basketball in his hand and judge instantaneously its weight, the distance to the target and the arc needed to get that object through the target. This judgment is a gift, and Sharman had it, much more so than do most shooters. His hard work turned this potential into achievement."

His name still dots the Celtics' record book, including being the team's top foul shooter for ten straight seasons, and having the fourth highest point total in one game (44). He finished his career with 12,287 points and his jersey, number 21, hangs in the Boston Gardens.

Seven times Bill was named to the All-NBA team, and eight times he played in the All-Star Game, being named MVP of the 1955 game. He was named to the NBA's Silver Anniversary team, symbolic of the best players in the league during its first 25 years, and in 1976 was inducted into the NBA Hall of Fame.

Bill continued his championship success as a coach in that he is the only coach in history to win championships in three professional leagues. In 1962 he guided the Cleveland Pipers to the American Basketball League title; in 1971 his Utah Stars won the ABA Crown, and in 1972 he coached the Lakers to their first World Championship since moving to Los Angeles. He also established NBA marks for most wins in a season (69) and most consecutive games won (33) during 1971-72.

He started his NBA coaching career with the San Francisco Warriors (1966-68), where in his first season he took his team to the NBA finals, and his second year he went to the division finals.

His all-time NBA coaching mark is 333-240, a .581 winning percentage. Four times in seven seasons in the NBA his clubs finished the regular season in first place.

Bill Sharman was born in Abilene, Texas on May 25, 1926. He moved to Lomita with his family when he was an infant. He starred at Porterville HS where he earned 15 letters competing in four sports: football, baseball, track and basketball. He was named the Outstanding High School Athlete in California in 1944 and won the state amateur singles tennis championship while still in high school.

After serving in the Navy for two years, Bill became an instant starter as a freshman at USC in both basketball and baseball. In two years at Southern Cal (1948-49 and '49-50) he did not miss a single free throw. Despite being a two-time All-Amercia in basketball for the Trojans, Bill signed a $15,000 bonus contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers organization.

Although he never did appear in a big league game, he was on the bench when Bobby Thompson stroked his historic home run giving the Giants the National League Pennant. But Bill decided to concentrate full-time on basketball having joined the Washington Capitals in 1949, before going to the Celtics in 1950.

And although Bill never aspired to be an actor, he did appear in several movies in days gone by, including "The Babe Ruth Story," "The Bob Mathias Story," "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," and "Greenfire." He had speaking-only parts in two other films.

Bill has four children and three grand children, and in his spare time retains his athletic stature by playing golf, tennis and volleyball.

PAUL WESTHEAD

When Paul Westhead and his family moved to Los Angeles a year ago, it was to become the assistant coach of the Los Angeles Lakers. He was quite content to be an assistant coach in the NBA and wait for the opportunity to become head coach. He later said that opportunity might come in one year, or five years, or ten years or never.

He never thought it would come after two months.

Because of the slip of a bicycle wheel, Paul was thrust into the head coaching role. He responded like a champion.

He guided the Lakers to a 50-18 mark when he was in charge, 60-22 overall. And his 12-4 playoff record was the best in eight years in the league. Before he knew it, Paul Westhead had reached the pinnacle of pro basketball when the Lakers whipped the 76ers in six games for the NBA championship. And he then signed a four-year contract as the head coach of the Lakers.

His .735 regular season winning percentage is the fourth best in league history for a first year coach. Only Red Auerbach in 1947, Al Cervi in 1950 and Bill Russell in 1967 have had better introductions as rookie coaches in the NBA.

And the challenge facing Paul this season is the opportunity to become the first club in 12 years to win back-to-back world championships.

According to Paul's players, he's a good coach. One who combines a thorough understanding of the game with firmness, sensitivity, self-control and extraordinary calmness and the ability to communicate.

Said Kareem Abdul-Jabbar about Paul, "Some coaches have the attitude, 'I'm the boss, I don't make mistakes and, if I do, nothing's gonna be said about it.' But Paul has been perfectly willing to admit that he didn't know everything about the NBA, that he needed help.

"He's not only knowledgeable and sharp but very, very level-headed. You respect Paul right away. And when you get to know him, you have to like him."

Added Jamaal Wilkes, "He's a very sensitive person and coach. He seems to be both hard-nosed and sensitive. That's a very elusive combination."

"I learned early," Paul said during the past season, "that the Lakers ride best under a hand ride, not a whip. They work better when you direct the pace instead of forcing it. We have some great athletes, but very delicate people. They work better being treated like artists."

If there has been one trademark that has followed Paul from his high school and college coaching days to the NBA, it's his love for the running game, the transition game.

"I think a team can run under any circumstance. You have to make it happen; you can't let the other team dictate how you are going to play. There is no excuse for not running. You have to create an electricity or an excitement."

And if last year is any indication, Paul Westhead will make it happen and keep the electricity generated for several seasons to come with the Lakers.

* * * * *

Paul Westhead was born February 21, 1939 in Pennsylvania, where he spent most of his life before moving west.

He started his coaching career at the University of Dayton in 1963, as the assistant, before being named head coach at Cheltenham High School outside of Philadelphia in 1964.

He spent four years there before becoming the assistant athletic director at St. Joseph's for two seasons, and freshman basketball coach. In 1970, he became the head coach at LaSalle, where in nine years he recorded a 142-105 record and won invitations to two NCAA Tournaments and one NIT. In 1975, after a 22-7 record, Paul was named NCAA District Two, Coach of the Year.

Paul received his bachelor's degree in English from St. Joseph's in 1961, where he also played basketball under now Portland coach Jack Ramsey, and received his master's degree from Villanova in 1963.

He began instructing classes in Shakespeare at the age of 21 and for 18 years he interpreted the plays of the Bard of Avon as a member of the faculty at Dayton, St. Joseph's and LaSalle.

Paul is married — wife, Cassie — and they have four children: Monica 16, Patrice 15, Paul 13 and Juliet 6.

Los Angeles had four players in 1979-80 to appear in all 82 games — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Norm Nixon, Jamaal Wilkes and Jim Chones. In the 12 years the NBA has played an 82-game schedule, 16 Lakers have played in all 82 games 23 times. Mel Counts and Darrell Imhoff were the first — in 1967-68. Wilt Chamberlain and Abdul-Jabbar lead the way, with three seasons of appearing in all 82 games.

PAT RILEY

Pat Riley had had a good basketball career. Yet he had one desire he still wanted to fulfill. He wanted to experience life as a basketball coach.

Last September he was entering his third season as the Lakers color commentator and a promising career as a sports broadcaster seemed eminent.

But when Paul Westhead was named the Lakers interim head coach, he tabbed Pat to be his assistant. That association continued when Paul signed a four-year contract to be the Lakers coach.

And now that one desire is being fulfilled.

"I love it," Riley said about coaching in the NBA. "The whole experience of moving from upstairs to downstairs has been a real juicer for me. A good experience and without question something I would do all over again without hesitation."

A nine-year NBA veteran as a player, Pat spent five years with the Lakers, 1971-75. In that time he averaged nearly eight points a game while alternating between a starting guard and a third guard assignment.

His best season with Los Angeles came in 1974-75 when he was a starting guard the first third of the season and one night tossed in 38 against New Orleans. He averaged 11 points that season before being forced to the bench with injuries.

The Lakers traded Pat to Phoenix in the fall of 1975, but a knee injury suffered that season limited his playing time and the next season he announced his retirement. Pat's career average in the NBA was 7.4 points.

Pat was out of basketball for a year before Chick Hearn asked him to work on the Lakers broadcasts. Pat feels this helped him in his role as a coach.

"I think the two plus years I was the Lakers color commentator helped me a great deal. For every game I would prepare volumes of material and I felt I was just as qualified as many full-time scouts in the league when it came to knowing the opposition."

Riley was the number one draft choice of the San Diego Rockets in 1967, having just completed four years at the University of Kentucky, where he led the Wildcats to a 60-25 three year record, and to the NCAA Championship game as a junior. He was the team's MVP in each of his three seasons and was the Kentucky captain as a senior.

Against San Diego (12-7) and Denver (12-9), the Lakers made 29 consecutive free throws. They hit their final two against the Clippers and made their first 27 in a row against the Nuggets before missing in the fourth quarter.

MIKE THIBAULT

Life on the road in general is not as glamorous as it may seem. When one is in a different hotel every day, always running to make an airplane connection, sometimes wondering what city one is in, it can be disheartening.

But if one loves his work, all of that can be quietly overlooked.

Such is the case of the newest member of the Los Angeles Lakers, Mike Thibault, who will be an assistant coach, directly responsible for scouting professional and college teams.

He joined the Lakers staff in August, and can't wait for the season to start.

I'm a basketball fanatic. I love the game, and this is something I have always wanted to do. I am just glad it is with one of the best organizations in the NBA."

Mike has been a part-time scout for the Lakers during the past three seasons. Last year he did some advance scouting for Coach Westhead prior to the playoffs.

A native of Minnesota, Mike moved to California at the age of 7 and grew up in Saratoga, California. His basketball expertise includes 12 years of coaching at the high school, junior college and college levels.

The 30-year-old Thibault is a graduate of St. Martin's College in Washington, where last year he was the assistant basketball coach. Single, Mike lives in Culver City when he's not running to catch an airplane.

JACK CURRAN

His job may be the most demanding of anyone in the organization.

He is always the first one on the job, and the last to leave. His preparation begins long before tip-off and lasts a long time after the buzzer blows.

Jack Curran is the trainer for the Los Angeles Lakers, which involves the physical well being of the team. This means he arrives early, for a game or practice, to give those players who need it a treatment in an effort to help prevent or heal an injury, tapes the ankles of the entire team, and then also generally will give a post-practice treatment as well.

The toughest part of the job is to anticipate what could happen and at the same time be prepared for anything.

And in addition to being the trainer for the Lakers, Jack doubles as traveling secretary. This means he is responsible for airline flights, hotels, transportation, practice time on the road . . . another demanding job. Last year, for instance, the Lakers flew over 125,000 air miles and made 25 different road trips.

But regardless of the time involved to do his job professionally, Jack Curran loves it. He is among a select breed of NBA trainers who were in the league in 1967-68. At that time Jack was employed by the Seattle Supersonics.

He is now in his third season with the Lakers, adding to a 25-year, four professional sports career as a trainer.

The 47-year old Massachusetts native, Curran previously worked as trainer for the Cleveland Barons of the NHL, Seattle Sounders of the North American Soccer League, and the Richmond Virginians, a Triple A farm team of the New York Yankees.

A certified Athletic Therapist by the National Athletic Trainers Association, Jack's formal education includes studies at the United States Air Force Medical and Surgical Schools. He is a 1958 graduate of the School for Trainers at Orlando, Florida.

Curran is known around the nation for his clinics on the care and prevention of athletic injuries, and has made numerous presentations to medical and paramedical groups.

His lone hobby is international trap, which he shoots in tournaments all over the North American continent. One day Jack would like to try the Grand Prix circuit in Europe.

JERRY WEST

Having been involved with truly his first and only love — basketball — since the age of 22, Jerry West was in a little bit of a quandry last summer, after deciding that three years of coaching in the NBA was enough.

He did not want to coach any more, yet he still wanted to remain an integral part of the Lakers.

Dr. Buss satisfied Jerry's thirst for the game, and made him a special assistant on the Lakers staff. This past year that meant Jerry was largely responsible for the Lakers college draft selections.

Jerry saw numerous college basketball games last year and when draft day came, he had done his homework. He correctly predicted the first 12 choices in the draft and provided assistance to Bill Sharman and Paul Westhead when it was the Lakers' turn to choose.

After a very successful 14-year career in the NBA, West retired after the 1974 season. After a two-year vacation he returned as head coach of the Lakers in 1976 and in his rookie season guided the club to the best record in the NBA, 53-29.

His three year coaching record was a very respectable 145-101 (.589), and three straight trips to the playoffs, but it wasn't something Jerry wanted to continue.

His 14-year record as a player was a bit more spectacular. During his career, Jerry scored over 25,000 points, led the Lakers to 14 straight playoff appearances, including the World Championship in 1971-72, and averaged 27 points a game for 14 consecutive years.

Always a clutch performer, Jerry scored 63 points in a game in 1963, the most points ever by a guard; a mark which stood for 14 years.

And West always played well in playoff situations. His 4,457 points is the most ever scored in playoff competition and his 29.1 average is second only to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Two of his most memorable playoff accomplishments were in the 1965 playoffs when he averaged a remarkable 41 points a game, and the 1970 playoffs when he sank a 60-foot shot with no time remaining to send a Lakers-Knicks game into overtime.

In his 14 years with Los Angeles he led the team in scoring nine times, assists 10 times and foul shooting nine times. He is the all-time Lakers leader in scoring, assists, field goals made, free throws made, and minutes played.

West was selected to play in the NBA All-Star game 13 consecutive years and was named to the All-NBA first team ten times and twice to the second team. He was MVP of the 1972 All-Star game.

This past April, Jerry was inducted into the NBA Hall of Fame.

Jerry was born on May 28, 1938 in Cheylan, West Virginia. He became a high school standout at East Bank HS, where he led his team to the state championship in 1956, averaging 32.2 points. That year he became the first high school player in West Virginia history to score over 900 points in a single season.

West went on to West Virginia University where he set 12 school records, graduated with 24.8 career scoring average and was twice named an All-America. He was the Lakers first pick in the 1960 college draft.

Jerry also captained the 1960 United States Olympic Basketball team which won a gold medal in Rome, and played on the championship United States team in the 1958 Pan American games.

He and his wife Karen reside in Pacific Palisades.

CHICK HEARN

He's perhaps the most respected and knowledgeable basketball broadcaster in the nation. His flair, his style, but most of all, his vocabulary, is his trademark.

Experience has provided Chick Hearn, now in his 21st consecutive season as the Voice of the Lakers, with the knowledge to accurately assess what happens on a basketball court.

While some have the breathless kinetic quality that typifies the game of basketball itself, others are more colorful.

And regardless of the situation that develops, one can rest assured Chick already has a phrase that will describe it beautifully . . . "He's yo-yoing the ball . . . He fakes his man into the popcorn machine . . . no harm, no foul . . . ."

The energy, the enthusiasm, the endurance Chick brings into a Lakers broadcast is unsurpassed. He's been with the organization longer than anyone else, since the 1960-61 playoffs.

He has broadcast more consecutive basketball games than anyone else. That number stands at 1,351 over the past 13 years, and 1,743 Lakers broadcasts since joining the organization.

For the record, he has missed two . . . one because of a golf committment and his last one, in 1965 because of weather, despite the fact a chartered jet was ready to fly him to the game.

The descriptive phrases used to describe Chick and his style over the years are memorable . . . Words Eye View . . . as valuable to the Lakers as a 90% foul-shooter or a 30-point guard . . . the Lakers 12th man . . . incredible, amazing, fantastic . . . .

If one listens to a Chick Hearn broadcast, one learns that a fine shot is never just a fine shot. It's sensational, incredible or unbelievable. And if one listens long enough, one learns that Chick Hearn is more than just a fine broadcaster. He is, the best.

* * * *

Chick was born Francis Dayle Hearn in Aurora, Illinois of Irish parentage, the son of a railroad worker.

His nickname was born when he was playing AAU basketball. During an AAU season he was having a great year, and Chick had a special pair of tennis shoes he continued to wear. Even though the shoes were falling apart, Chick refused to wear anything else. Finally, a lady asked him if she were to buy him another pair of sneakers, would he wear them. Chick said yes and so the next day in front of his locker was a beautifully wrapped box. His AAU teammates gathered around and when he opened the box inside, instead of tennis shoes, there was a dead chicken. That day in practice, his nickname became "Chicken" and a few days later it was shortened to Chick.

Chick was the captain of his high school basketball team, East Aurora, and later played AAU ball while officiating college and prep games. His first job out of Aurora College, though, was a credit analyst for Dunn & Bradstreet.

During World War II, Sgt. Hearn of special services was asked to organize a touring baseball team and then ordered to help with the broadcasts when nobody else was available.

But after the war he had trouble finding a job in this field, working as a salesman for a drug company while knocking on radio station doors. At last he connected with a small station in Aurora, calling high school games.

His success there led to the play-by-play for Bradley University's basketball team, and then in 1956 Chick headed west to do USC football and basketball. His brilliant style led to a nightly sports show with NBC's Los Angeles affiliate, and network assignments as play by play announcer for virtually every type of event including NCAA football, The Rose Bowl, major golf tournaments, major league baseball, and the first Ali-Frazier fight.

He has twice been named California's Top Sportscaster and in 1965 was presented with an Emmy for his nightly sports show.

Married, Chick and his wife, Marge, live in Encino. He has one daughter, Samantha.

Lakers rebounding marks include 10 defensive rebounds in a quarter and 17 in one half, by Kareem Abdul Jabbar against Detroit (December 14, 1975) and seven offensive rebounds for one half by Happy Hairston against Seattle (February 15, 1974).

KEITH ERICKSON

Regardless of the situation, Keith Erickson has always been one to fill in on a moment's notice. And last season, when Pat Riley was called down from the broadcast booth to the bench to assist Paul Westhead, another call was placed to Keith Erickson, to become Chick Hearn's colorman.

"It was a challenge to step in on short notice, but I know the game and I know the team and I'm getting to know my job so I guess I'm going to be OK." Erickson said during last season.

"He's not just getting by," interrupted Hearn, 'he's getting to be really good. He's just beginning to get the hang of it. He's got good tools and he's easy to work with."

Erickson should be getting good at it. He has always been involved with basketball. He was a player until he was 33 and he's been an announcer since. He played a dozen seasons in the NBA and now is beginning his second season with the Lakers as the colorman.

In Keith's 12-year NBA career, playing for San Francisco, Chicago, Los Angeles and Phoenix, five times his club went to the NBA finals. He was on the Lakers championship team of 1972, making him one of the few to play for championship clubs on both the college and professional levels.

Keith came out of El Segundo to play on John Wooden's first two NCAA Champsionship teams at UCLA. Showing his athletic versatility, Keith also was a brilliant volleyball player and played with the US Olympic team at Tokyo in 1964.

After retiring from basketball as a player, Keith has done some regional broadcasting of NBA games for CBS-Television, and also some cable games for ON-TV.

KAREEM ABDUL-JABBAR 33

Ht: 7-2 Wt: 235
Position: Center
Born April 16, 1947, New York, NY
High School: Power Memorial
College: UCLA '69
Residence: Bel Aire, California

1979-80: ... had what many league observers called his finest season yet, and he capped the season by winning an NBA record sixth MVP (71-72-74-76-77-79) in his 11th professional season ... that ties him with Gordie Howe as the most MVPs ever won by an individual in a single league. Howe won seven MVPs, six in the NHL, one in the WHA ... voted the NBA Player of the Decade by a panel of sportswriters ... finished sixth in the league in scoring with a 24.8 average, eighth in rebounding at 10.8, and for the fourth time in six years led the league in blocked shots at 3.41 per game ... shot a career best .604 from the field, finishing second in the league, and making him just the third player in NBA history (Wilt Chamberlain, Cedric Maxwell) to shoot .600 or better over the course of a season ... enters 1980-81 with a consecutive double figure scoring streak of 225, an NBA record ... led the Lakers last season in scoring 46 times, in rebounding 49 times and seven times in assists ... in 47 games games shot better than 60% from the field ... started 81 of 82 games, missing the first half against Houston because of a migraine ... had an early season streak of 22 consecutive free throws ... had a season high of 42 points against Cleveland in that four overtime thriller and hit for 39 points against Chicago (Dec. 18) for his regulation time best ... had 50 games over 20 points, including 23 in a row at one point, and 17 more games over 30 points ... hit 11 consecutive field goals against Philadelphia (Feb. 10) ... became the fifth player in league history to top 24,000 points when he scored 30 points against Portland on March 12 ... grabbed 10 or more rebounds in a game 50 times, including 20 against Seattle in October ... had a game high of 11 assists and his .765 free throw shooting percentage was also a career best ... scored over 2,000 points in a season for the first time in three years ... attempted just one three point field goal, against Denver on December 9 ... as Paul Westhead, Lakers coach, puts it, "Kareem is, clearly the best player in basketball, and he does it every night ..." ... added John MacLeod of the Phoenix Suns, "I have never seen him play as well as he did from the beginning of a season to the end, as he did last year ..." ... Abdul-Jabbar continued his impressive figures in the playoffs as he averaged 31.9 points and 12 rebounds a game, and scored a game high 40 points in the all-important fifth game against Philadelphia ... since joining the Lakers in 1975, he has been the high scorer in 32 of 34 playoff games ....

BasketballCard Archive.org

CAREER: ... based on his career scoring average of 28.3 points per game, Abdul-Jabbar should become the fifth player in league history to top 25,000 points in the 30th game of this season against Dallas (Dec. 9) ... Abdul-Jabbar could become the second fastest player ever to tally 25,000 points. The NBA mark is just under 700 games set by Wilt Chamberlain ... entering the 1980-81 season, Abdul-Jabbar ranks fifth on the all-time scoring list with 24,175 points, second with a 28.3 career scoring average, eighth in rebounds with 12,346 points and third in field goals made at 9,979 ... he claims his role changed with the Lakers last season where now he does not have to score as much as he once did, and he can concentrate more on defense and rebounding ... he continues to be the all-time leading average scorer in the playoffs, with a 30.2 average ... he's sixth on the playoff scoring ladder with 2,861 points, fifth in rebounding with 1,474, and fifth in field goals made at 1,184 ... Kareem is one of 12 players in league history to have won an NBA championship for two different clubs ... Abdul-Jabbar entered the NBA with the Milwaukee Bucks in 1969-70 (they won the coin flip from Phoenix) and won Rookie of the Year Honors as well as being named to the All-Rookie team ... he finished third in the balloting for the MVP Award and his 29.9 scoring average was second in the league ... he won his first MVP Award in 1971 and capped off that season by being named the MVP of the World Championship Series as the Bucks defeated Baltimore, 4-0 ... in 1972 he again was named MVP and averaged 34.8 points winning his second league scoring title ... he shot .574 from the field and averaged over 44 minutes a game during 81 regular season games; that season he scored 55 points against Boston (Dec. 10) which is still his NBA best ... he finished second in scoring during the 1972-73 season as well as runner-up in the MVP balloting . . . he won his third MVP in 1973-74, finished third in scoring at 27 ppg, fourth in rebounding at 14.5 and shooting .557 from the field . . . since joining the Lakers during the summer after the 1974-75 season (for Elmore Smith, Brian Winters, Dave Meyers and Junior Bridgeman), Abdul-Jabbar has averaged better than 25 points a game and won two more MVP Awards . . . enters this season as the active leading scorer in the NBA . . . he has been named to the All-NBA team seven times during his career, and to the second team on three other occasions . . . he has been selected for the All-Star game nine times and made the NBA All-Defensive 1st team four years and second team five years . . . Kareem originated the sky hook, which he first began using in the fourth grade, and which simply was called a hook before Milwaukee broadcaster Eddie Doucette added "Skyhook" to the lexicon in Abdul-Jabbar's rookie season . . . in his career Abdul-Jabbar has 63 games of 40 points or more and 16 games of 25 rebounds or more . . .

COLLEGE: . . . led UCLA to three successive NCAA titles (1967-69) and was named MVP of the NCAA Tournaments all three years . . . named College Player of the Year in 1967 and 1969 and runner-up to Elvin Hayes in 1968 . . . the Bruins were 88-2 during Kareem's tenure . . . his college career scoring average was 26.4 points per game and he was an unanimous All-America . . . in high school at Power Memorial, the club went 95-6 in four years, including a 71-game winning streak . . .

PERSONAL: . . . a practicing Moslem, his name was Lew Alcindor, until he changed it in 1971. Kareem stands for "generous," Abdul for "servant of Allah" and Jabbar for "powerful" . . . participated in his first Superstars competition in late August . . . had a featured role as the co-pilot in the movie hit of the summer, Airplane! . . . previously he had acted in a Bruce Lee film, "Game of Death" . . . Abdul-Jabbar likes to read, view old fight films, and travel through Asia . . . he also has over 3,000 jazz albums in his collection as well as an extensive array of Oriental rugs . . . .

JIM CHONES 9

Ht: 6-11 Wt: 220
Position: Forward
Born November 30, 1949, Racine, Wisconsin
High School: St. Catherine's (Racine, Wisc.)
College: Marquette, '72
Residence: Cleveland, Ohio

1979-80: . . . the trade which brought Jim Chones to the Lakers (in exchange for Dave Robisch and a draft choice) was viewed as a steal for Los Angeles . . . and after the way Chones performed last season, it looks more like highway robbery . . Chones started 70 games for Los Angeles, 69 at forward and one at center . . . his excellent play at center enabled Coach Westhead to rest Abdul-Jabbar for about ten minutes a game . . . seeing action in all 82 games, Chones increased his consecutive game streak to 444, second longest in the NBA behind Randy Smith, his former Cavalier teammate . . . Jim connected on 48.9% of his field goal attempts, his best shooting percentage in six years in the NBA. It surpassed the 48.7% he shot as a rookie . . . and his 74% from the free throw line was also an NBA career best . . . nine times Jim led the Lakers in rebounding and his 23 points led the Lakers in a 106-97 October win over Seattle . . . about Los Angeles, Jim remarked last year, ". . . there is something about the environment and the climate; people just want to be more positive. The sun is always out. I am pleased to be here . . ." . . Chones has averaged in double figures in each of his six years in the NBA, but last season was the first in which he did not top 1,000 points . . . scored 11 points and grabbed ten rebounds in Game Six against Philadelphia in logging 43 minutes of playing time . . . grabbed 56 steals last season, another career best . . . had 49 games in double figures, topped by that 23-point outing against Seattle, and grabbed a season high 16 rebounds against Utah (Oct. 23) . . . .

CAREER: . . . two years ago, Jim led the Cavaliers in offensive rebounds, defensive rebounds, total rebounds, and blocked shots. He also set a personal best with 181 assists as he scored in double figures in 65 games while grabbing ten rebounds or more in 46 games. MIKE COOPER 21

Position: Guard
Born April 15, 1956, Los Angeles
High School: Pasadena
College: University of New Mexico, '78
Residence: Los Angeles, California

1979-80: . . . Mike was another Lakers success story in 1979. . . at training camp, the Lakers were overloaded with guards, but a few injuries cut into that depth, a couple of trades were made, and pretty soon Mike found himself slotted as the number three guard . . . his defense became his forte, and as Phoenix's Dennis Johnson puts it, "Mike's a big key to the Lakers. I have a lot of respect for him. He's tough, he's good. . . ." . . . his first start came at Seattle on October 21, and Mike responded with 19 points and nine rebounds . . . although he only started nine times during the season, Mike was just as effective coming off the bench . . . in mid-November he scored in double figures in five consecutive games, including 20 points, six rebounds, and four assists in 25 minutes against Indiana (Nov. 18) . . . shot 52.4% from the field and 77.6% from the foul line, and saw action in every game . . . ranked seventh on the team in scoring with an 8.8 average, and fifth in assists with 221 . . . generally was assigned to stop the opponents' big scoring threat . . . had a career high 13 rebounds, in addition to 14 points, against the 76ers (Jan. 25) in a game he started . . . at the Boston Gardens he was assigned to stop Larry Bird in the third quarter of the Lakers 100-98 comeback victory and Mike held Bird scoreless, while adding nine points and four rebounds to the cause . . . won 12 games with his defense, according to Lakers coach Paul Westhead . . .

CAREER: . . . not the most auspicious pro debut . . . played 50 seconds two years ago in his first game, 90 seconds at Madison Square Garden against the Knicks in which he got his first slam dunk in the second game, and then two minutes against Washington in his third game before being placed on the injured reserve list, where he remained for the season . . . Mike's career got off to a late start when a torn knee ligament in a summer pro league game on July 11th placed him on the injured reserve list for the first two months of the season . . .

COLLEGE: . . . was the second leading scorer for New Mexico his senior year with a 16.1 average . . . has a college career high of 29 points against Vermont and 27 against Eastern New Mexico . . . during his junior and senior seasons scored in double figures in 29 consecutive games . . . held Freeman Williams, then the nation's leading scorer, to just 12 points where they met the Lobos, 26 points under his average . . . Mike transferred to New Mexico from Pasadena City College where he averaged 20.2 points as a sophomore . . . New Mexico was 41-14 during Mike's two years on campus . . . co-captain the team as a senior and in 1978 was named All-America by the U.S. Basketball Writers . . . Mike was a third round 1978 draft choice by the Lakers . . . .

PERSONAL: . . . did not make the varsity team as a junior in high school, but he grew two inches during the summer and as a 6-3 senior was a starting forward and averaged 14 points per game . . . as a child, doctors feared he might never walk without the aid of a metal brace after an accident left him with 100 stitches in his leg . . . was honored with a Michael Cooper Day this past September in Pasadena . . . married, wife's name is Wanda . . . .

1979-80: had the kind of season most players dream about, and then capped it with a 42 point, 15 rebound, 7 assist performance against Philadelphia in Game Six of the World Championship Series, which won him the playoff MVP award . . . became the first rookie in league history ever to win the playoff MVP award . . . from the time he was drafted, to his summer league debut, to training camp, and throughout the entire season, Magic was someone special . . . moved into the starting lineup immediately and started 72 of the 77 games he played in . . . an early-season knee injury caused him to miss three of those games in October . . . scored in double figures in 69 games, and led Los Angeles 12 times in scoring, 18 times in rebounding, and 33 times in assists . . . had two lengthy consecutive free throw streaks, one of 25, the other 23 . . . averaged 7.7 rebounds a game, second best in NBA history for a guard, surpassed only by Jerry Sloan's mark of 8.8, set in1970-71 . . . had a career high 18 rebounds against Chicago (March 7), in addition to grabbing 16 rebounds in a game on two other occasions . . . had 15 defensive rebounds against Portland (March 12) and against Kansas City (March 5) and averaged better than 11 rebounds a game the last month of the season, in addition to scoring better than 18 points a game . . . set several Lakers rookie records including most assists 563, bettering Norm Nixon's mark of 553 set in 1977-78; steals with 187; field goal shooting, with a mark of .530 surpassing Nixon's mark of .527, and free throw shooting with a mark of .810, surpassing Bob Leonard's mark of .772 set in 1956-57 . . . his shooting percentage was better than any rookie who has ever won the NBA Rookie-of-the-Year-Award . . . Unanimous choice to the NBA All-Rookie team and Magic finished second in the Rookie-of-the-Year balloting . . . was the first rookie to start the NBA All-Star game since Elvin Hayes of San Diego in 1969, and Magic recorded the third most votes with 185,754 . . . only Abdul-Jabbar and George Gervin had more . . . Magic averaged 18.0 points a game in his rookie season, and finished seventh in the league in assists at 7.3 points per game and fifth in the league in steals at 2.43 per game . . . Johnson is the only player in the history of the game of basketball to have participated in a state high school championship game, a collegiate championship game, and professional league championship game, before the age of 21 . . . and his teams won all three games . . . in the playoffs, Magic shot 52% from the floor, and continued where he left off in the regular season, averaging 18.3 points, 10.5 rebounds and 9.4 assists per game . . . his Game Six performance against the 76ers will go down as one of the finest the game has ever seen, and might be comparable to Elgin Baylor's 61-point outburst at the Boston Gardens in 1962 . . . one of three players to win an NCAA Championship one year and an NBA title the next (Bill Russell, Henry Bibby) . . . his season high of 31 came against Denver (Nov. 9) and San Diego (Dec. 7) . . .

COLLEGE: . . . as a college freshman led Michigan State to its first Big 10 title in 19 years and as a sophomore to the national championship . . . was named the MVP in the 1979 NCAA Tournament following the Spartans' 74-65 win over Indiana State . . . in his two seasons at Michigan State, Johnson holds the school record for career assists, 491, and career average 8.4 . . . says his college coach Jud Heathcote, "... I'll bet in clutch shooting, when a basket had to be made, he was about 65%. When he has to score or wants to score, he can kind of will the ball into the basket . . . ." . . . was a consensus All-America . . . and his single season assist mark of 269 still stands . . . in the past two years, he has graced the cover of Sports Illustrated four times . . . his college career high was 32 points against Ohio State, and 14 assists three different times . . . .

PERSONAL: . . . nicknamed "Magic" by a Lansing sportswriter after he scored 36 points, grabbed 18 rebounds and made 16 assists in a high school game . . . heavily in demand for endorsements and personal appearances . . . is scheduled in the near future for television appearances on "The White Shadow" and "Different Strokes" . . . can also be seen on "Speak Up, America" . . . played third base for his softball team, Magic Johnson Enterprises, back in Michigan, where he also attended summer school at Michigan State . . . a communications major . . . .

FORUM FACTS

Ground Breaking:	July 1, 1966	Basketball Capacity:	17,505
First Event:	December 30, 1967	Hockey:	16,005
	Flyers 2, Kings 0	Conventions:	19,385
First Lakers Game:	December 31, 1967	Boxing:	18,780
	Lakers 147, Rockets 118	Concerts:	19,000

The Forum, built by Jack Kent Cooke in 1967 and purchased by Jerry Buss in 1979 is one of the world's premier sports and entertainment showplaces.

Forum history highlights include, the largest live boxing gate, $475,640, in West Coast history when Muhammad Ali split decisioned Ken Norton on Sept. 10, 1973; Tony Bennett and Duke Ellington in the first Forum concert in 1968; the Lakers 114-100 victory over the New York Knicks on May 7, 1972 to bring the NBA championship to Los Angeles.

Approximately 28 million people have flocked to such Forum events as world championship boxing, the Harlem Globetrotters, concerts of all shapes and dimensions, ice shows, the circus, rodeos, the champion Los Angeles Strings of World Team Tennis, the Los Angeles Times Indoor Track & Field Games and seemingly countless other spectacular entertainment and sporting events.

More than 70 percent of seating is between the baskets or goals, and no seat is more than 170 feet from the playing surface.

The finest in dining is provided in the private Forum Club, the public Whistle Stop and at numerous concession stands.

For the second consecutive year the Lakers led the league in field goal percentage, connecting on 52.9% of their field goals, a league record. Los Angeles was the only team in the league to hit better than 50% of their field goals and the team percentage surpassed their mark of 51.7% set in 1978-79. In 60 of 81 games, Los Angeles shot better than 50%, and on eight occasions shot better than .600 from the field. The top two team shooting performances came in successive games on November 11, against Cleveland when they hit 65 of 98 attempts (.663) during a 140-126 victory, and .674 at San Diego on November 13 when they hit 60-of-89 attempts in a 137-91 victory.

Three times in the Lakers 20-year history in Los Angeles, the club has gone through a month undefeated. The all-time best month was December of 1971, second month during the 33-game winning streak, with a 16-0 mark. That is closely followed by a 14-0 mark recorded during November of 1971 and a 12-0 mark matched in November of 1972. Then comes a 14-2 record from January of 1963 and a 12-2 mark (.857) from March of 1972. Other months above .800 include February of 1968 (13-3, .812), March of 1980 (13-3), and November of 1962 (12-3, .800).

The Lakers set a club record with 21 consecutive points against the Boston Celtics at the Boston Gardens on January 13, 1980 in a 100-98 comeback victory. Los Angeles also ran off 18 consecutive points against the Milwaukee Bucks on December 2, 1979 (in the fourth quarter) and again tallied 18 straight points on December 16, 1979 against San Antonio. Against the Spurs the Lakers' 18 consecutive points came at the start of the game, another club record. Los Angeles also scored 18 consecutive points, against the Detroit Pistons, (third quarter) in 1972.

Only two franchises have ever been able to win back-to-back NBA World Championships, the Minneapolis Lakers and the Boston Celtics. The Minneapolis Lakers won consecutive championships in 1948-49 and 1949-50, and again when they won three straight titles in 1952, 1953 and 1954. Boston won eight consecutive league championships from 1959 through 1966, and again in 1968 and 1969. No team has won consecutive league titles since the 1967-68 and 1968-69 Boston Celtics.

DQ = Individual players disqualified (Fouled out of game).

Los Angeles had seven sellout crowds last season, — in the regular season — which ranked them fifth in the league. Portland sold out every home game (41), while Milwaukee had 39 sellouts, Boston 32, Phoenix 14, and the Lakers and Seattle seven apiece. The Lakers ranked third in total attendance with 584,644 fans, behind Seattle's (890,713) and Boston's (596,349). On an average basis, the Lakers had 81.4% capacity for every home game.

LAKERS YEAR-BY-YEAR

1961 — Lakers first season in Los Angeles after 12 years in Minneapolis . . . Finish in second place in the Western Division behind St. Louis . . . Forward Elgin Baylor winds upon as the second leading scorer in the NBA with 2,538 points and a 34.8 ppg. average . . . Playoffs: Defeat Detroit (3-2), but lose to St. Louis (3-4) . . .

1962 — WESTERN DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . . Lakers win the West as Jerry West pours in 2,310 points (30.8) and a part-time Elgin Baylor averages 38.3 . . . Playoffs: Baylor averages 38.6 points and West 31.5 as the Lakers defeat Detroit (4-2), but lose to Boston (3-4) in the championship series in an overtime seventh game . . . Schaus coached.

1963 — WESTERN DIVISION CHAMPIONSHIPS . . . Elgin Baylor again finishes as the second leading scorer in the league with 2,719 points (34.0) as the Lakers roll to their second division title . . . Playoffs: Lakers defeat St. Louis (4-3), but lose to Boston in the finals (2-4) . . . Schaus coached.

1964 — West (2,064) pts, 28.7 average) and Baylor (1,983 pts., 25.4 average) finish as the fifth and six leading scorers in the league, but Lakers finish in third place behind San Francisco and St. Louis . . . Playoffs: Lose to St. Louis (2-3) in first round . . . Schaus coached.

1965 — WESTERN DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . . West paces the Lakers with 31.0 ppg. — second best in the league . . . Playoffs: Lakers beat Baltimore (4-2) in the division finals despite the absence of the injuried Elgin Baylor . . . Lose to Boston (1-4) in the championship. Jerry West has a record-breaking playoff, scoring an incredible 447 points for a 40-6 average in the 11 games played . . . Schaus coached.

1966 — WESTERN DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . . Lakers lead the NBA in scoring, averaging 119.5 ppg . . . West again finishes as the league's second best scorer, averaging 31.3 ppg. . . . Playoffs: Lakers defeat St. Louis (4-3) in the division finals, but lose the World championship to Boston (3-4) in a seventh game that Boston wins by two points, 95-93 . . . Schaus coached.

1967 — Plagued by injuries that keep West out of the lineup for 15 games, and Baylor out for 11, the Lakers slide to third place in the Western Division. Playoffs: West manages to play in only one playoff game and the Lakers bow to San Francisco (0-3) in the opening round . . . Schaus coached.

1968 — WESTERN DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . . Under new coach Butch Van Breda Kolff, Lakers roll to divison title despite absence of West for 31 games during regular season . . . Baylor leads the team in scoring (26.0), rebounding (941) and assists (355) . . . Playoffs: Lakers sweep by Chicago (4-1) and San Francisco (4-0), but lose to Boston (2-4) in championship.

1969 — WESTERN DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . . Lakers start slowly, but compile nine-game win streak in November that puts them in first place for the rest of the season . . . New Laker Wilt Chamberlain leads league in rebounds (21.1) and field goal percentage (.583) . . . Playoffs: Lakers lose first two playoff games but come back to beat San Francisco (4-2), then overwhelm Atlanta (4-1) . . . Lose to Boston (3-4) in seven games, the last game a 108-106 heartbreaker in Los Angeles . . . Van Breda Kolff coached.

1970 — WESTERN DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . . Injury jinx again hits Lakers as Wilt Chamberlain tears knee ligaments and is lost to team for regular season. Lakers finish in second place in division . . . Playoffs: Will Chamberlain back, Lakers defeat Phoenix (4-3) and Atlanta (4-0), but run out of miracles in the final series against New York, bowing to the Knicks and a hobbling Willis Reed in seven games (3-4) . . . Joe Mullaney coached.

1971 — PACIFIC DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . . Lakers finish a strong seven games ahead of San Francisco for the division crown, despite Baylor missing all but two games in the regular season. Scoring slack was taken up by Chamberlain (20-7), Happy Hairston(18.6) and Gail Goodrich (17.5) . . . Playoffs: Both Baylor and West are not in uniform, but Lakers still manage to upset Chicago in seven games (4-3) in the opening round . . . Team falls to eventual World Champion Milwaukee Bucks in five games (1-4) . . . Mullaney coached.

1972 — WORLD CHAMPIONS . . . Lakers set record as winningest team in the history of the NBA with 69 wins, and also compile a 33-game win streak — the longest streak in all professional sports, as they finish in first place in the Pacific Division by an amazing 18 games . . . Goodrich averages 25.9 points and West hands out a league-leading 747 assists . . . Playoffs: Lakers roll over Chicago (4-0) and eliminate Milwaukee (4-2) to win the Western Division . . . Los Angeles spots New York a one game lead in the finals, but then rolls to four straight wins to gain the World Championship (4-1). In the final game Wilt Chamberlain hauls down 29 rebounds and scores 24 points as the Lakers win 114-100 . . . Bill Sharman is voted Coach-of-the-Year.

1973 — WESTERN CONFERENCE CHAMPIONS . . Wilt Chamberlain becomes the first player in NBA history to shoot over 70% from the field (.727) and the Lakers have the second best record in the club's history, winning 60 and losing only 22 . . . Playoffs: Lakers down Chicago (4-3) and Golden State (4-1) to again face New York for the championship. Lakers win the first game, but Knicks' pressure defense causes Los Angeles to average 19 turnovers per game and New York wins the next four and the title (1-4) . . . Sharman coached.

1974 — PACIFIC DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . Lakers stage a tremendous comeback in the last seven games of the season to erase Golden State's three game lead and win the crown. They accomplishment was even more remarkable considering that they did it without last year's stalwarts Wilt Chamberlain and Jim McMillian and with West sidelined for 51 games . . Playoffs: Lose to Milwaukee in opening round (1-4) . . Sharman coached.

1975 — Jerry Wests retires . . Cazzie Russell injures his knee and is out for the balance of the season, and the Lakers miss the NBA playoffs for the first time in 14 seasons . . . High points of the year include Gail Goodrich's 53 points against Kansas City-Omaha and Happy Hairston's 14 rebounds in one quarter against Philadelphia . . Sharman coached.

1976 — New Laker Kareem-Abdul Jabbar becomes the first Laker in either Minneapolis or Los Angeles to win the League MVP award, the fourth time in his seven-year career that he has received that honor. In one of the most convincing displays of basketball dominance, Abdul-Jabbar leads the league in rebounds, blocked shots, minutes played, is second in scoring, fifth in shooting, and second on the Lakers in steals and assists. However Lakers are totally unable to win on the road (9-32) and are edged out of the playoffs by losing the last two games of the season at Portland and Phoenix . . Sharman coached.

1977 — PACIFIC DIVISION CHAMPIONS . . Former Laker great, Jerry West, returns to the team as head coach, and in his rookie season guides the Lakers to the best record in the NBA —53-29 — and the Pacific Division title . . . In the process, Lakers set an NBA record with 37 home wins and a Laker team record with 21 consecutive home victories . . . Center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar wins his second straight NBA Most Valuable Player award, the fifth time in his eight year career that he has earned such honors. Playoffs: Lakers defeat Golden State in seven games (4-3) as Abdul-Jabbar averages 37 points, 18.7 rebounds, and shoots .607 from the field. In the Western Conference finals, Lakers are unable to contain Portland's quick guards and are swept, 0-4.

1978 — Five Laker players suffer broken bones in the first half of the season including center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who breaks his hand in the first two minutes of the opening game of the year when he punches Milwaukee center Kent Benson in retaliation for a thrown elbow . . In addition, forward Kermit Washington is fined $10,000 and suspended 60 days for punching Houston forward Rudy Tomjanovich . . . In the second half of the season, with most of the players healthy, Lakers roll to a 28-13 marks, second best in the league . . For the season Lakers shoot .487 from the field, second best in the history of the franchise. Playoffs: Laker guards are pressured into shooting a combined .363 (37-102) from the field as tem loses to Seattle, 1-2, in the first round.

1979 — West completes three-reign as coach with 47-35 record and playoff elimination by Seattle for second straight year . . Bullets and Sonics are strongest NBA teams, having reached finals two years in a row. Lakers are using small forwards, Jamaal Wilkes and Adrian Dantley . . . In summer prior to 1980 season, Cooke sells his California Sports Inc. empire (Lakers, Kings, Forum and a ranch) to Santa Monica real estate developer Jerry Buss for $67.5 million . . Buss hires Jack McKinney to be head coach and Paul Westhead from LaSalle as assistant.

1980 — WORLD CHAMPIONS . . . McKinney falls from bicycle Nov. 8 and Westhead takes over, guiding team to Lakers' second NBA championship in their 20 years in L.A. . . Abdul-Jabbar is MVP. . . Lakers win final playoff game over 76ers in Philadelphia without injured Kareem, and rookie star Magic Johnson wins playoff MVP award. Westhead is then given a new four-year contract by Buss and McKinney signs to coach Indiana Pacers . . Pat Riley, lured from broadcasting booth where he was Hearn's color man, is new assistant coach.

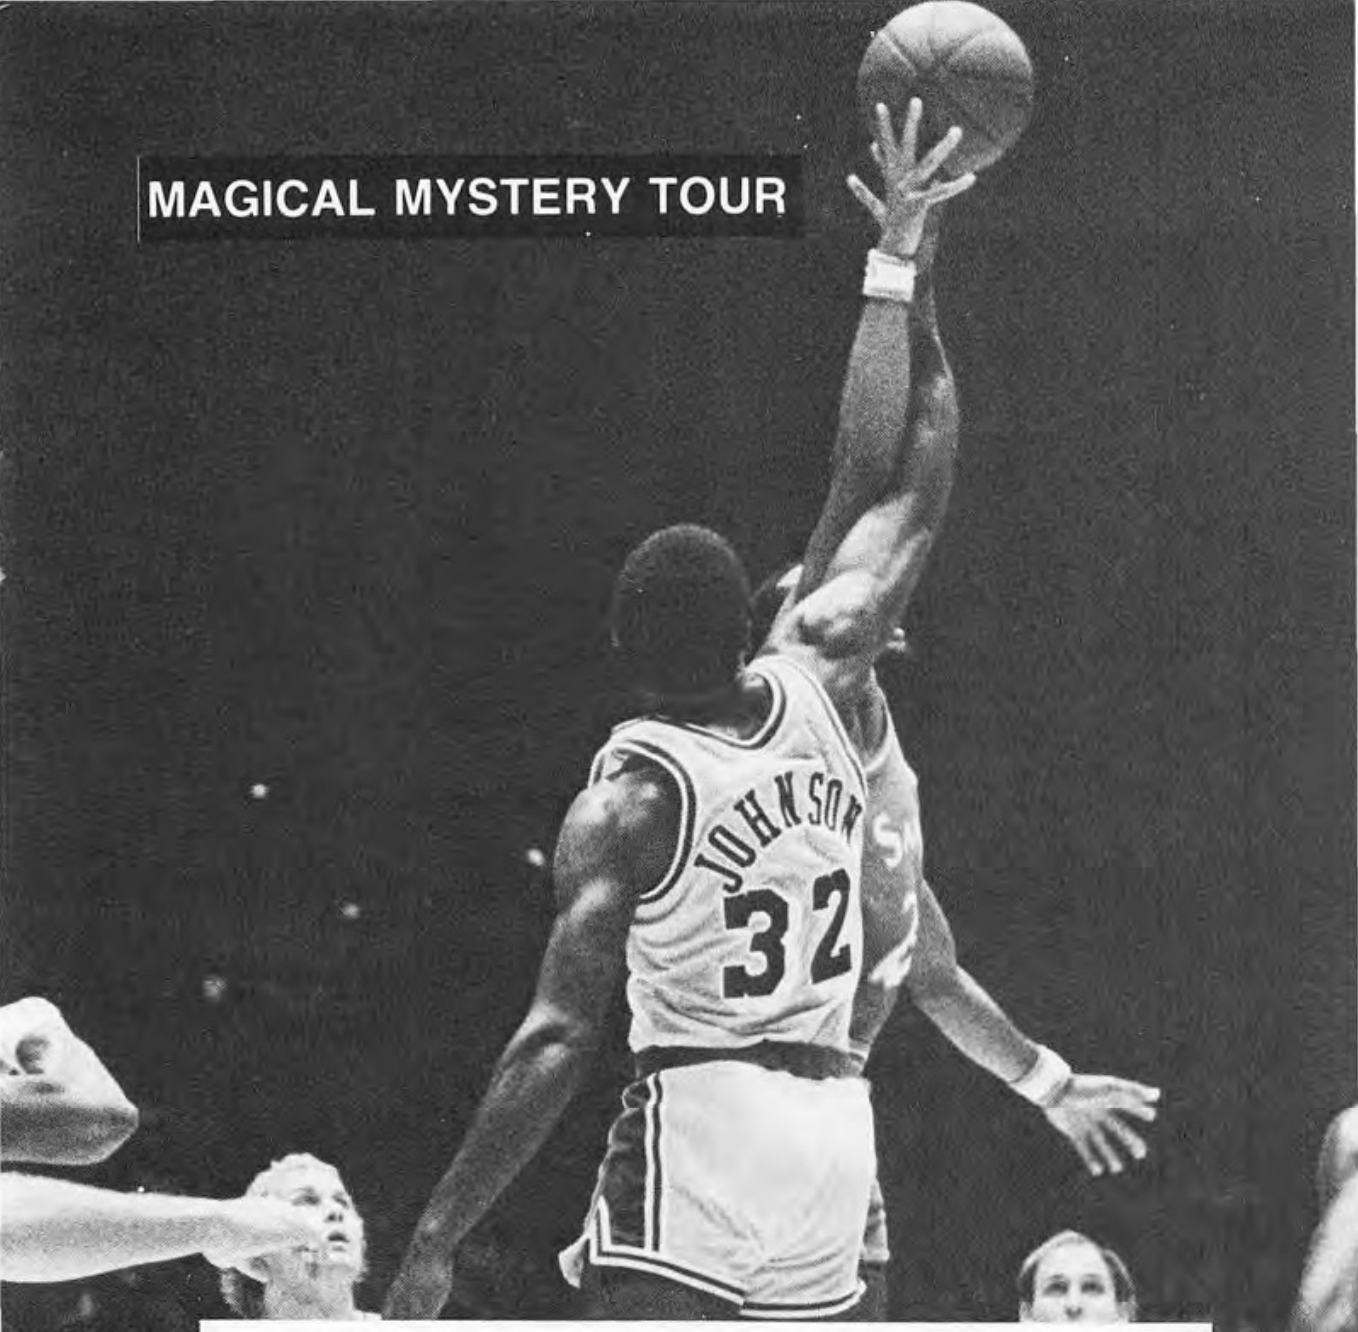
MAGICAL MYSTERY TOUR



In retrospect, the trip to the championship was an unlikely odyssey. In the words of the Beatles, a "Magical Mystery Tour."

Chronologically, here's how it happened.

April 19, 1979: The Lakers won the coin flip and the rights to draft first in the college draft. Sharman said the Lakers would consider Michigan State guard Magic Johnson. Others he mentioned were Larry Bird (whose rights at the time belonged to Boston), David Greenwood, Bill Cartwright, Sidney Moncrief and James Bailey.

May 16, 1979: Chick Hearn begins the press conference saying, "Ladies and gentlemen, this is one of the most historic events in Laker history . . . " The Lakers announced they have agreed to agree with Magic Johnson. They can't make it official until the next month's college draft.

May 28, 1979: Jerry Buss buys Jack Kent Cooke's sports empire for $67.5 million. Included in the purchase are the Lakers, the Kings and the Forum.

June 25, 1979: The college draft is held in New York and the Lakers make Magic the NBA's No. 1 draft choice. The Lakers also take Brad Holland on the first round. Buss, who is in New York for the occasion, also announces Jerry West has chosen not to return as Laker coach.

July 24, 1979: Magic comes to town and works out with the Lakers' summer league team. Courtside observers are impressed. One is Sharman. "I've had guys tell me they weren't impressed with Magic the first time they saw him," said Sharman, "but they loved him the second or third."

July 27, 1979: Magic plays his one and only summer league game. A turn away crowd is on hand at Cal State L.A. In the crowd is Jack McKinney, the Portland Blazer assistant coach who is the leading candidate to coach the Lakers.

July 30, 1979: The Lakers announce the signing of the 44-year old McKinney. The new coach says: "Magic will be the tallest ball handling guard in the NBA."

August 3, 1979: The Lakers say they've lost interest in trying to sign free agent forward Larry Kenon. One reason is they don't want to include Norm Nixon in the deal.

Sept. 13, 1979: The Lakers trade forward Adrian Dantley to the Utah Jazz for Spencer Haywood.

Sept. 14, 1979: The Lakers open training camp. Their headquarters is the Ocotillo Lodge, Buss' Palm Springs hotel.

Sept. 17, 1979: Buss signs free agent Jamaal Wilkes to a long-term contract. Most of the payments are deferred over an estimated 20-year period. Millionaire Wilkes is a happy forward.

Sept. 18, 1979: Magic talks about the pressure waiting for him when the season opens. "Yeah, I know there's pressure out there but I don't feel it. I like the idea of people wonderin' how I'm gonna do. The more people wonderin', the more people in the stands. That's good for me and the team. When there's no people and no yellin' and screamin', there's nothin'."

Oct. 5, 1979: The Lakers trade Dave Robisch and a third round draft choice to the Cleveland Cavaliers for Jim Chones. McKinney's immediate plans are for Chones to back up Abdul-Jabbar at center and Haywood at power forward.

Oct. 11, 1979: Abdul-Jabbar is voted team captain by his teammates.

Oct. 12, 1979: The Lakers win the season opener, 103-102, over the Clippers in San Diego on Abdul-Jabbar's 18-foot skyhook at the buzzer. Magic jumps into the arms of the startled Jabbar. The celebration begins.

Oct. 16, 1979: The Lakers win their home opener, 105-96, over the Chicago Bulls before 15,073.

Oct. 17, 1979: With one minute and 30 seconds remaining in the third period of a game against the SuperSonics in Seattle, Magic comes down with a rebound and twists a knee. Dr. Martin Kushner of the SuperSonics diagnoses the injury as a partial tear of the medial collateral ligament of the right knee. The prognosis is Magic is out for two months. Buss hires a private plane to fly Magic to Los Angeles that night.

Oct. 18, 1979: As if by magic, Magic's all right. Dr. Robert Kerlan takes X-rays and says the ligament is sprained, not torn. The prognosis: seven to 10 days.

Oct. 19, 1979: McKinney starts Ron Boone in Magic's place and the Portland Trail Blazers blow out the Lakers.

Oct. 21, 1979: McKinney makes two lineup changes. He starts Mike Cooper at guard instead of Boone and Jim Chones at forward in place of Haywood. Haywood had injured his hip in the same game Magic injured his knee and sits out the Lakers' 106-97 win over Seattle.

Oct. 24, 1979: The Lakers trade disgruntled forward Kenny Carr to Cleveland for two second round draft choices. Carr told McKinney he wanted more playing time and McKinney decided he didn't have it to give.

Oct. 25, 1979: The Lakers trace Ron Boone to Utah for a third round draft choice and sign free agent forward Marty Byrnes.

Oct. 26, 1979: Magic rejoins the team and scores 26 points off the bench as the Lakers beat Kansas City at home, 116-104.

Nov. 2, 1979: The Lakers announce Magic will hold a press conference each time he visits a new NBA city because of the deluge of interview requests.

Nov. 8, 1979: While riding a bike down a Palos Verdes hill on his way to a tennis date with assistant coach Paul Westhead, McKinney falls and sustains serious head injuries. He is registered at Little Company of Mary Hospital in Torrance as "John Doe." He carried no identification at the time of the accident.

Nov. 9, 1979: Westhead fills in for McKinney and the Lakers beat Denver, 126-122, in overtime. Buss announces that Westhead will be the interim coach until McKinney returns.

Nov. 24, 1979: The Lakers lose three straight, to Portland, Seattle and Phoenix, all on the road. It is to be their longest losing streak of the season.

Nov. 25, 1979: Westhead names broadcaster Pat Riley as his assistant coach. McKinney is still hospitalized.

Dec. 16, 1979: Following a game against San Antonio at the Forum, Haywood, who did not play, calls Westhead a liar. Westhead had told the press Haywood didn't play because he didn't practice the previous Thursday and was unable to work out on Saturday. Haywood, suffering from an allergy reaction, took exception to his status on Saturday. The fact he was present should have counted as a practice, Haywood thought.

Dec. 17, 1979: Westhead calls Haywood in the morning and tells him not to join the team at the airport that morning for its two-game road-trip.

Dec. 18, 1979: McKinney, released from the hospital earlier in the month, discusses the Haywood situation with Buss and reportedly recommends the Lakers keep the power forward.

Dec. 20, 1979: After approximately 20 hours of meetings covering three days, Buss patches up the Haywood-Westhead conflict. Haywood remains a Laker, but is warned to stay out of trouble.

Dec. 28, 1979: The Lakers' first big win, 123-105 over Larry Bird and the Boston Celtics at the Forum.

Jan. 9, 1980: Westhead shakes up the starting lineup by replacing Chones with Haywood against Washington. It is Haywood's first starting assignment in almost three months. Nonetheless, the Lakers lose on the road, 103-101, and Magic Johnson injures his groin.

Jan 11, 1980: Despite the injured groin, Magic starts against the Pistons before 28,146 people in Pontiac's Silverdome. Lakers win, 123-100.

Jan 13, 1980: The Lakers win another big one, 100-98 over the Celtics in Boston Garden. Mike Cooper stops Larry Bird in the second half. Magic continues to hobble on the injured groin and doesn't start the second half.

Jan. 15, 1980: Magic misses the first of two games because of the groin. Cooper starts in his place and the Lakers beat the Jazz, 112-99, at the Forum.

Jan. 21, 1980: Magic, back with the team for the second game but still coming off the bench, dazzles the Forum with brilliant back-to-back, no-look passes against the New York Knicks. Magic, who could have made a lay-in on the second but instead chose to flip it behind his head to Kareem for the dunk, said the crowd was only "semi-berserk," and that he wanted them to go all the way. He did it.

Jan. 27, 1980: Magic, fully recovered from the lingering groin injury, moves back in the starting lineup and scores 25 points in Lakers' 112-102 win over Milwaukee.

Jan. 29, 1980: The marathon game. The Lakers lose, 154-153, to the Cleveland Cavaliers in four overtimes. It's the most points ever scored by a losing team. Norm Nixon plays 64 of 68 possible minutes.

Feb. 5, 1980: Abdul-Jabbar destroys New York Knick rookie Bill Cartwright during a 116-105 Laker victory in Madison Square Garden.

Feb. 9, 1980: Westhead has a kidney stone attack and is taken to a hospital in Philadelphia and kept overnight.

Feb. 10, 1980: Westhead, still in pain from the kidney stone, coaches as the Lakers lose 105-104 to Philadelphia. He is under heavy medication.

Feb. 11, 1980: Westhead has surgery for removal of kidney stone.

Feb. 13, 1980: With Westhead still recovering from the operation, Pat Riley coaches the Lakers to a 129-103 win over Portland. Earlier in the day, the Lakers trade Oliver Mack and two second round draft choices to Chicago for power forward Mark Landsberger.

Feb. 15, 1980: The Lakers beat the NBA trading deadline and move Don Ford and a 1980 first round draft choice to Cleveland for Butch Lee and a first round choice in 1982.

Feb. 24, 1980: Abdul-Jabbar has the first of his migraines and misses the first half of play against the Houston Rockets at the Forum. He arrives two and a half minutes into the third period and leads the Lakers to a 112-100 win.

Feb. 26, 1980: The Lakers move into first place in the Pacific Division in convincing fashion by destroying Seattle, 131-108, at the Forum.

Feb. 29, 1980: Milwaukee ends the Lakers' 18-game Forum winning streak with a 126-117 victory in overtime.

March 14, 1980: Buss meets with McKinney and breaks the news to him that he won't return as Laker coach this season.

March 22, 1980: After the Lakers whipped Seattle at the Forum Feb. 26, the Sonics said, "Wait till we get 'em in Seattle." In Seattle, the Lakers win, 97-92, and all but eliminate the Sonics from the division race.

March 31, 1980: Magic sets up Chones with the winning basket on a no-look pass and the Lakers finish the regular season with a 95-93 win over the Warriors in Oakland and a 60-22 record. Abdul-Jabbar sits out the second half with another migraine.

April 7, 1980: "I don't see anybody beating us," says Norm Nixon on the eve of the Lakers' first playoff game against the Phoenix Suns in the Western Conference semifinals.

April 8, 1980: The nine-day layoff doesn't hurt the Lakers as they roll to a 119-100 victory over Phoenix in Game 1 at the Forum.

April 11, 1980: The Lakers break a Veterans Memorial Coliseum slump (they had won once there in six years) by beating the Suns, 108-105, to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

April 15, 1980: After losing Game 4, the Lakers wind up the series with an easy 126-101 victory over the Suns at the Forum.

April 22, 1980: The Lakers all season long figured Seattle was the team to beat. Now they know it. They lose Game 1 at the Forum, 108-107, on a controversial call with two seconds to go. Referee Earl Strom cites Nixon for fouling Jack Sikma on a rebound under the Laker hoop. Sikma makes one of the two free throws.

April 23, 1980: Game 2 isn't easy either but at least the result is palatable, a 108-99 victory. The Lakers go to Seattle for Games 3 and 4 knowing they must win at least once.

Arpil 27, 1980: The Lakers stun the Sonics. They sweep them in Seattle and take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven conference finals. "They claim they like to play with their backs up to the walls," says Abdul-Jabbar. "At this point, they're about to go over the wall."

April 30, 1980: The Sonics go over the wall. Kareem gives the Lakers a halftime pep talk and they respond with a 111-105 win that eliminates the defending champs in five games. Kareem does some playing, too. He finished with 38 points.

May 2, 1980: Haywood, who injured his foot during Game 3 of the conference finals, passes out while on the floor during stretching exercises.

May 4, 1980: Game 1 of the championship finals. Michael Cooper and Jamaal Wilkes stop Julius Erving with double-teaming help from their teammates and the Lakers cruise to a 109-102 win.

May 6, 1980: Haywood arrives 10 minutes late for practice at Loyola-Marymount U.

May 7, 1980: Game 2. Sixers took advantage of the Lakers' double-teaming. They hit from outside and Darryl Dawkins goes for 25. After the game, Westhead meets with Haywood in Sharman's office and tells him he's been suspended from the team for "activities disruptive toward the team."

May 10, 1980: Game 3. The Lakers get a big game out of Chones and regain the homecourt advantage by beating the 76ers, 111-101, at the Spectrum in Philadelphia. The Lakers continue their domination of the boards.

May 11, 1980: Game 4. Abdul-Jabbar is held, literally, as the Sixers win, 105-102, to even the series at two games each. Kareem scores only 23 points, the first time during the series he has less than 33.

May 14, 1980: Game 5. The Lakers hang on to win, 108-103, to take a 3-2 series lead, but Abdul-Jabbar sprains his left ankle during the third period. He misses four minutes and the Lakers out-score Philly, 12-6.

May 15, 1980: Kareem and Dr. Robert Kerlan decide Kareem should remain in Los Angeles to undergo treatment on the ankle. Kerlan says the center's chances of playing Game 7 are 50-50. Westhead, meanwhile, says Magic will replace Abdul-Jabbar at center for Game 6. The stage is set.

May 16, 1980: Game 6. It's Magic.

OH WHAT A FEELING!

TOYOTA

Tap the power assisted front disc brakes. Haul it down for the turn. Now, the straight beckons. Power on, the tach climbs...

The Celica GT Liftback. A unique combination of the fantastic, and the practical. And this year, the 1980 Celica comes even closer to the perfect melding of excitement and affordability.

The front end is restyled. It's bolder, more suggestive of the power waiting in the 2.2 liter overhead cam engine. Powerful tungsten halogen high beam headlights are standard.

Inside, the redesigned seats offer more side support. Of course, the features that have long made the Celica GT such a good value (like a 5-speed overdrive transmission, AM/FM stereo radio and full instrumentation) are still standard.

The Celica GT Liftback. It's lean and clean and a little bit mean. Make it your machine.
